

Scottish Gaelic National Spring School

In 2019, our Sgoil-Earraich Nàiseanta (National Spring School) will be held in Adelaide, where it will be held Nunyara Conference Centre, Belair, Adelaide, from Friday evening 15th November to Sunday afternoon 17th of November.

In conjunction with the Scottish Gaelic Society of Victoria and with the support of Gaelic learner groups around the country, we will again be offering a comprehensive program for all levels of Gaelic learners.

Familiar format for learning

The Sgoil will follow the tried and tested formula that has been applied over the years, with an emphasis on practical spoken Gaelic. We will be led by experienced language teachers including fluent native and non-speakers.

Classes at your own level

As in previous years, each person attending the Sgoil will be assigned to an appropriate class according to his or her level of fluency. Classes will cover the spectrum of skills – reading, writing, conversation and comprehension, from complete beginners up to the advanced class conducted 's a' Ghàidhlig for those who are fluent or advanced learners.

Teaching through song and activities

The Sgoil will again use Gaelic song to introduce learners to the sounds and rhythms of Gaelic, and will also use other cultural and social activities to enhance the language-learning experience.

Immerse yourself in Gaelic

Making the most of the residential format, there will be constant opportunities for using Gaelic in your daily activities, meals, chores, and socialising. The Sgoil leaders will facilitate this with word guides and useful phrases provided for your use. We hope that you'll go away with language that you can use in your daily lives long after the Sgoil has ended.

Extra activities

Outside of class times, and especially in the evenings, there will be opportunities to socialise and learn more about Gaelic while enjoying music, poetry and culture. Evenings include activities such as a cèilidh or a trivia quiz with a Gaelic theme.

Bring your instruments

All participants are encouraged to take a turn at the traditional cèilidh, so bring your musical instruments, favourite songs or poems, or dancing shoes – whatever your talent is, we'd like you to share it.

Location

The Sgoil will be held at Nunyara Conference Centre in Belair, South Australia. Registrants will receive advice on transport options.
